

Comedy Fans the world over have taken notice of Kevin Bartini's cutting edge, quick witted biting sense of humor. Basked in an enduring sense of frustration towards all things great and small, Kevin's act is an ever-changing mix of personal and often embarrassing stories combines with insights and observations. He deftly maneuvers from intimate tales of his personal life to hilarious rants about the world we live in. After ten years honing his skills in New York City, Kevin's easy demeanor and sharp wit make him one of the brightest new stars on the comedy landscape.

He has worked for two seasons as an Audience Warm Up Comic for Who Wants To Be a Millionaire. Kevin is also a regular performer on An Evening with The Daily Show and Friends. Kevin was also featured at the Las Vegas Comedy Festival where he was selected the "Top Club Comic in New York City". Kevin has also appeared on television on Discovery Channel's Cash Cab and NBC's Saturday Night Live.

Kevin is the host of the podcast MOVIE PREVIEW REVIEW a weekly movie review satire in which he reviews a new release based on seeing nothing but the films previews. The MOVIE PREVIEW REVIEW Podcast quickly went viral and has been downloaded on iTunes thousands of times over.

As a comedy writer is highly sought after and highly respected. Beyond writing his own podcast, he has written for MSNBC'S Countdown with Keith Olbermann, Spike TV, Comedy Central's Live at Gotham, and HBO's Got No Game.

www.KEVINBARTINI.COM